

Going all out to keep learners engaged and on task?

Keep it simple, keep it structured, keep it interactive

During school closures it is important to engage with your whole school community. Having a comprehensive parental engagement strategy means providing a simple, low maintenance way for teachers, students and parents to communicate. Facilitating discussions about schoolwork, remote lessons and general wellbeing should provide reassurance to parents and students and help to ensure the best outcomes for each student.

A remote classroom solution

- Deliver an online curriculum with live timetabled lessons.
- Using links to Microsoft Teams, via the Everest App, makes online learning easy.
- Launch other apps and class teaching resources via the Everest quick links

Reinforce learning

- Teachers have comprehensive homework management tools.
- Publish supporting information, for students to access via the App.
- Students have the option to ask for clarification or extra help.
- Teachers have an easy way to engage with students and their parents.

Simple remote access to SIMS

- Provides a simple interface to read from and write to SIMS.
- Make key information on students and contacts available to teachers online.
- Access information from most devices with an internet connection.
- Provides schools with a great deal of flexibility and keeps costs to a minimum.
- Quick to implement and no maintenance overhead for the school.

Everest offers all of this in one solution that is simple to deploy and even easier to use.
